In "Autistic and Dysphasic Children. II: Epilepsy" (Pediatrics. 1991;88:1219-1225), by Tuchman et al, the sentence beginning on line 6 of the second paragraph under "Electroencephalographic Data" (p 1222) should read: "In the autistic group with EEG data and without epilepsy (N = 141), 25 (18%) had an abnormal EEG including 11 children (8%) with epileptiform and 14 children (10%) with nonepileptiform abnormalities." Under "Regression of Language and Behavior and Epilepsy" (p 1222), the sentence beginning on line 3 of the first paragraph should read: "Epilepsy was present in 20% (20 of 100) of autistic and 36% (4 of 11) of dysphasic patients with regression."
